STINGAR and ViPCS enter into a long-term collaboration agreement

It is with great pleasure that Servizi Tecnici di Ingegneria ed Architettura (STINGAR) and GxP VISCONTI Pharma Consulting Services (ViPCS) announce the implementation of a long-term technical collaboration agreement that will allow both companies to share technical expertise, resources, and knowledge to support their respective clients around the world.

Due to the increase of the demand for pharmaceutical consulting services covering strategic, operational and tactical issues the companies find it compelling and appropriate to join forces toward providing the right level of support needed with the right level of expertise they bring to the pharmaceutical and food industry.

We believe this collaboration will help us serve the critical needs of support of our current and future clients by setting a new standard for the delivery of effective engineering and GMP consulting services leading to high performing quality systems and organizations.
